Description

The former White Horse Inn - a substantial and historic building offering excellent development potential, located in the heart of Rhyl town centre.

Believed to date from circa 1890, this prominent property features the traditional black-and-white frontage associated with Victorian public houses and provides extensive accommodation arranged over two floors.

Ground Floor (Former Public House)

The ground floor comprises a range of former trading areas including:

- Two bar/lounges
- Function room
- Commercial kitchens
- Ladies and Gents WCs

These versatile spaces offer numerous possibilities for redevelopment, subject to the relevant planning consents.

First Floor Accommodation

The first floor is divided into two self-contained flats, each offering:

- Lounge
- Kitchen/Diner
- Two Bedrooms

- Bathroom

Both flats provide good-sized accommodation and further scope for modernisation or reconfiguration.

Development Potential

The property presents a fantastic opportunity for residential, commercial or mixed-use redevelopment (subject to planning). Previous planning applications can be viewed on the Denbighshire County Council Planning Portal, enabling interested parties to explore historical proposals and future possibilities.

This is an exciting chance to acquire a characterful and substantial building with a wide range of potential uses in a convenient location close to Rhyl town centre, transport links and local amenities.
